Tone Generator Free [Win/Mac]

Tone Generator is an audio application designed to set the desired frequency of sound; either by manual input or the numerical pad. Once set, the application will generate a tone for a predetermined duration. Enjoy! The best news is that the application is completely free, which means there's no need to have a purchase; otherwise, we'd advise that you go for a paid version of the application. To make a note of it, here are some additional characteristics of the tool: Software name: Tone Generator Type: Windows Application ID: Tone Generator - [TGE] Author: BULCAT GmbH Last updated: 03/29/2016 Language: English License: Free There are two types of audio jacks that operate on the system, namely the PC Speaker, and the Creative Sound Blaster audio jacks. Each of them is comprised of two parts: a pin, and a socket which receives the pin. The creative plug has pins 3, 7, 9, and 1, while the pc speaker has pins 1 and 7. Sometimes a combination of the two can result in audio distortion. So you need to check out this system before installing the card. Keep in mind that there are other combinations which could cause audio distortion as well. So how do you tell which combination to avoid? The answer is simple. Just press the pins on the card and look at the sound in the audio settings. If there's a beep sound, then it's safe. Which pins are safe? If you look at the audio output device, there are pin numbers that indicate which specific pins are safe. Generally speaking, any pin that reads 1, 2, 3, 4, or 5 is considered safe. So long as the pins that correspond to the numbers are safe, the entire card should work. If there's a red or black marker on the card, that indicates which specific pins are safe. If there are markings like this, that means the pin numbers aren't actually safe, and thus, it's best to avoid that specific combination entirely. For example, if you check out the audio output device for the Creative Sound Blaster X-Fi Fatal1ty Gaming Headset, it clearly shows pins 3, 7, and 1 to be safe. If you also notice that the Creative Sound Blaster X-Fi Fatal1ty Gaming Headset is marked 1, 2, 4, 5, and 7, that means

In fact, it is very versatile and can be used to generate a range of effects, which includes ringing, hissing, screeching, beeping, and even alarms. As for the output, you can select any device, such as a synthesizer, sample player, or even a microphone. The application has a visual setup wizard that walks you through the process, which requires you to specify the frequency that you want the tone to reach, as well as the duration of the tone. After inputting your settings, the tones will start appearing in a separate window, so that you can determine their sound quality. The frequency refers to the notes that will be played, and you can adjust the duration from 50 milliseconds to 2 seconds. When it comes to the settings, there are a few more options that can be used to affect the tone in question. For instance, you can change the pitch (1 to 4 semitones), or the tone's volume. As for the actual sound, you can modify its tone (bass to treble), and it also has a customizable noise filter that is enabled by default.
