Q: How do I change the default value of a field in SQL Server using C#? I'm changing the default value of a field when the user opens the table. The setting is based on another table. The field has a default value of 0. The user changes that to 1 then back to 0. How would I change the field to 1 from a value in the other table? I'm using VS2005 C# with SQL Server 2005. A: You can execute this stored procedure on your table, and the new value will be automatically set for you. DECLARE @db as DBName DECLARE @tableName as varchar(50) SET @tableName = 'TableName' SET @db = CURRENT_DB() EXEC sp_execute @db = @db, @sql = 'ALTER TABLE'+ @tableName + 'ALTER COLUMN'+ @ColumnName +'int not null DEFAULT 0' GO

Decreased expression of alpha-dystroglycan in the brains of patients with Alzheimer's disease. Our previous studies have shown that the localization of alpha-dystroglycan is regulated by phosphorylation in a tissue-specific and disease-specific manner. In order to elucidate the role of alpha-dystroglycan in the brain in Alzheimer's disease (AD), we studied the localization of alpha-dystroglycan in the hippocampus and cerebral cortex in autopsy samples from AD patients by use of immunohistochemistry and immunoelectron microscopy. In the hippocampus, the immunoreactivity of alpha-dystroglycan was significantly decreased in the CA1-2 and CA4 subfields and in the molecular layer of the dentate gyrus of AD patients. Immunoelectron microscopy revealed that the gold particles immunostained with the alpha-dystrog
