A: The following is a detailed answer that also includes information you need about the pages you will be viewing. This will be helpful in the event that your PDF file is damaged or missing pages. Check the Adobe PDF files that you are trying to use for any errors. Open a single page in Acrobat and examine the PDF header (image below). Examine all the columns - Identify any number of these errors. Look for changes to the PDF content (if there are any). If pages appear in the order they were originally meant to be seen, this will indicate that there is a problem with the file. If the content and page ordering seem to be correct, we need to check your computer for compatibility issues with Acrobat XI. Make sure you have the latest version of Adobe Acrobat installed. If not, get the latest version. If you are using Windows 7 or Windows 8.1, a bug was fixed in 2015 that prevents Acrobat from recognizing some pages on your system. No harm is done to your system as Adobe continues to issue updates. The recommended workaround is to download a clean version of Acrobat to get back to normal. If you are using Windows 8, you can use the SitePoint instructions to recover from the problem: Download and install .NET Framework 4.7.2 Download and install Microsoft Office 2016 if you don't already have it Download and install Acrobat XI if you haven't already Download and install Adobe Reader XI from this page From your comments, it seems that you have an older version of Adobe Reader on your computer. You can verify this with the info at step 4 above. If you have an older version of Adobe Reader, download the version you need from the Adobe download page. Make sure you use the link above, don't use the other links that look like, "Visit Adobe.com and search for: Adobe Reader." If you use this link, you can download a version for Mac as well as Windows. When you get the new version of Adobe Reader installed, open it. Click the File menu at the top of the main screen and select Open. Browse to the page in your browser that has the bad PDF file. This is a local file that won't be sent over the internet. After you open the file, it should be usable by Acrobat. If it's not, open it in a second browser window or move to step 7 to see if you can find errors in 6d1f23a050
